

Individualized Laboratory Reports produced by the AASHTO re:source Proficiency Sample Program provide evidence that a laboratory is enrolled in the program. The reports do not imply that the laboratory has participated in the sample round(s), or that the laboratory holds AASHTO Accreditation in any capacity. It is requested that the reports are not to be used for advertising, publication, or promotional purposes.

To the extent permitted by applicable laws, AASHTO re:source will seek to ensure confidentiality of all information from client laboratories and suppliers of equipment and materials used in its programs.

AASHTO re:source will only release Individual Laboratory Reports to the participating laboratory. Distribution of Individual Laboratory Reports to other non-affiliated entities will only be provided with expressed written consent from the participating laboratory.

AASHTO re:source proficiency sample round data (summary or raw) can be released to those who participate in the AASHTO re:source programs or others who have a professional interest (ex. standards writing bodies who prepare precision statements for technical standards, etc.). The released data shall not identify the laboratories participating in the AASHTO re:source programs.